

WATER CONSERVATORS

ANNUAL GOLF DAY

October 2012

It wasn't hurricane Sandy but it was a trifle windy and damp for the long awaited return of the Water Conservators' golf day at Leatherhead on 31st October. None the less an enjoyable afternoon of mixed fortunes was concluded by the nine players who assembled for the competition.

The prize for the best round by a Water Conservator, The Bill Smith Cup, went to Tim Goss with a very creditable 35 points, given the conditions. Christine North won the ladies competition, although, whilst it is certain she played very well, she was the only lady competing this year.

Leatherhead Golf Club proved to be an easily accessible course which was not too expensive and not too demanding. We plan to hold next year's competition at Leatherhead again, but probably in September. Look out for the announcement of the date on the website. Those who are known golfers will be e-mailed but if you haven't previously received an invitation to join in with the WC golfers please send Richard Waller an e-mail expressing your interest.

We would very much like to build up the numbers of members, ladies and guests playing in this competition. Indeed if your company might be interested in a Corporate Membership it would be a good way to introduce key people to the convivial membership that being a Water Conservator offers. Having a handicap or being good at golf are not pre-requisites with the WC golfers!
